Oriel Mimosa Gallery A

This gallery was founded more than a decade ago as a direct result of Graham Sutherland's wish to present a group of his works to the region as a token of his recognition of the inspiration he had received. Sutherland, one of the most famous twentieth-century artists, strongly believed that the work done in a certain area is best seen in that area. The gallery houses a large collection of the artist's work, including pictures especially painted for it, nearly 1000 drawings and prints, and works of applied art. The programme of exhibitions includes contemporary paintings and sculpture, crafts, photography and children's work. There are also events, workshops, visits and lectures. Further information on talks, admission fees, group discounts and other facilities can be obtained by calling the gallery.

Museum of the Welsh Woollen Industry B

Located in the historic former Cambrian Mills, the museum is a special place with a spellbinding story to tell. This flagship museum is a new and exciting place to visit with something for everyone to enjoy. The museum serves two functions: it illustrates the history of the industry and acts as a shop window for the present Welsh wool industry through its craft workshops. Shirts and shawls, blankets and bedcovers, woollen stockings and socks are all made here, and sold in the surrounding countryside. The museum mounts working historical exhibits and offers visitors regular demonstrations of the spinning, weaving and dying process that turn fleece into fabric. Visitors are able to watch the machinery in action and discover how the industry developed and how vital it is for the community.

National Museum of Wales C

The Museum is sure to spark your interest. It is unique among British Museums in its range of art and science displays. The "Evolution of Wales" exhibition takes you on a spectacular 4600 million year journey, tracing the development of Wales and the world from the very beginning of time. There are displays of Bronze Age gold, early Christian monuments, Celtic treasures, silver, coins and medals, ceramics, fossils and minerals. And if that is not enough there are exciting temporary exhibitions. The art collection at the National Museum is one of Europe's finest. See five hundred years of magnificent paintings, drawings, sculpture, silver and ceramics from Wales and across the world, including one of Europe's best collections of Impressionist art.

Roman Legionary Museum D

Almost 2000 years ago, the Roman Empire dominated the civilised world. Britain was its furthest outpost and still bears the marks of its illustrious Roman past. Today, at the Roman Legionary Museum, you will learn what made the Romans a formidable force. You'll see how they lived, slept and ate; how they marched and practised for battle; which gods they worshipped, and which jewels they wore and valued. The early Roman finds from the base at Usk are also on annual displays in summer. To enjoy this magnificent exhibition you'll need to hurry because it comes to a close in under a fortnight. Group bookings are discounted provided prior notice given.

Welsh Industrial and Maritime Museum E

The museum is located right in the heart of Cardiff's famous docklands and it illustrates the story of Wales' industrial and maritime past. The purpose-built galleries contain working examples of the machines which drove all the coal-mines and iron-works of Wales. Visitors can take a mini-railway tour around a range of exhibits relating to industrial Wales, including examples of ships, trains and other vehicles that brought raw materials to the Docks or transported them to markets overseas. Special activities are available for our younger visitors in the holiday periods. The museum which stands on the waterfront will satisfy everyone's desire to learn more about industry and transport.

Task 2. Read the text and answer questions 16-20 after the text. Choose A, B, C or D.

'Happiness is not having what you want but wanting what you have' seems to be a popular wisdom. Although happiness still remains a mystery for modern scientists, recently some interesting discoveries have been made. Those who say they are happy, for example, tend to be less self-centred, less hostile and abusive, and are less prone to disease and general ill health. Interestingly, the affluent are not notably happier than their less well-off counterparts, and seemingly, no particular time of life is significantly happier than any other. When questioned, most people said they were generally happy painting a much rosier picture regarding people's general moods and dispositions.

One of the reasons we have such a problem with happiness is that many confuse it with a life untouched by anxiety, rage, doubt and sadness. The belief that happiness means that nothing ever goes wrong is naïve. In order to be happy we must know not only how to avoid disturbing events but also how to deal with them.

Professor Csikszentimihalyi believes happiness is achieved when "people get the feeling of flow from dangerous sport or driving fast. But it may also come from something relaxing like painting or reading a good book." The point is that it is an activity you do for the pleasure of doing it. You are not looking for praise or reward. What is important is to keep your brain busy if you want to be happy. The professor explains "if you leave someone on their own with nothing specific to do, most of their thoughts will be worries." People tend to think about all the things they want and haven't got rather than how good their life is. It seems the key to happiness lies in having an active and challenging lifestyle.

- 16. What have studies shown?
- A. Happy people are wealthy and self-sufficient.
- B. Happy people have a positive outlook on life.
- C. Happy people are usually rather young.
- D. Happy people are socially-minded.
- 17. What does a common misconception about happiness indicate?
- A. Happy people are able to handle problems.
- B. Rich people are happier.
- C. Happiness implies never having problems.
- D. Happiness stems from being naive.
- 18. What is the "flow" of happiness triggered by according to professor Csikszentimihalyi?
- A. By a desire to get some external reward.

- B. By enjoying doing nothing.
- C. By people's spending most of their time challenging others.
- D. By doing various activities for personal pleasure.
- 19. Why is inactivity so dangerous for personal happiness?
- A. Because people experience more anxiety.
- B. Because people try to challenge themselves.
- C. Because people don't get what they want.
- D. Because people think everything is fine.
- 20. Which of the following sentences best expresses the main idea of the text?
- A. The scientists compare a variety of emotions which a human-being experiences throughout his life.
- B. The research outlines the advantages and disadvantages of happiness.
- C. The research has shown that happiness is caused by different chemical reactions.
- D. The scientific study helps us understand how to improve human well-being and get most satisfaction from life.
